

75 years of Spielwarenmesse – Celebrate, Discover, Connect!

- Activities and events across the entire exhibition centre and in ToyCity Nuremberg
- Special recognition: 15 exhibitors have been with us from the very beginning

On 13 November, exactly 75 days before the fair begins, the countdown to a very special anniversary kicks off with exclusive content in the online magazine 'Spirit of Play'. In 2026, Spielwarenmesse will be celebrating its 75th anniversary, transforming the Nuremberg Exhibition Centre from 27 to 31 January into a unique showroom for the international toy community. With a wide range of activities, interactive offerings and plenty of space for the world to meet, this anniversary edition will be the place to be for the entire industry.

A one-of-a-kind edition

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone involved for their wonderful cooperation by creating a special atmosphere to make each and every visit to the Spielwarenmesse a unique experience for all exhibitors," emphasizes Christian Ulrich, Member of the Executive Board at Spielwarenmesse eG (Spokesperson). The countdown has already begun: the online magazine Spirit of Play brings to life the success story that began with the German Toy Fair back in 1950. Every day, stories, facts and background features offer fresh insights into the past, present and future of Spielwarenmesse. At the same time, exhibitors and visitors are invited to share their own personal stories, except for during the years 2021 and 2022, when the fair could not be held on-site due to the pandemic.

At the Heart of the Action

During the event, a variety of special anniversary highlights will ensure unforgettable moments. An exhibition with interactive elements, located in front of the centrally positioned Entrance Mitte, will offer fascinating insights into the history of Spielwarenmesse and showcase its key milestones: from rapid international expansion and the move to the exhibition centre, to numerous world premieres of products. The ongoing success story also includes continuous digitalisation and the strengthening of the fair's strong networking character under the current Executive Board members

Florian Hess, Jens Pflüger and Christian Ulrich. Another highlight: across the entire exhibition grounds, numerous exhibitors will join in the celebrations with their own activities, offering everything from musical performances and creative photo spots, to exclusive product testing areas.

Spielwarenmesse milestones 1949–2026: an overview

- 1949 Four visionary entrepreneurs, Carl Ehmann (Märklin), Ernst Theodor Horn (Chief Executive Officer of the German Toy Industry Association), Arno Drottboom (Director of VEDES) and Hans Mangold (GAMA) decide to come together and stage a trade fair for toys in Nuremberg.
- 1950 The first German Toy Fair takes place from 12 to 18 March 1950 with 351 exhibitors and 4,300 buyers – 600 of them from abroad. The fair is opened by the Federal Minister of Economic Affairs, Ludwig Erhard, and takes place in and around the Wieseler Haus in Nuremberg. After this successful premiere, the Fair Committee and 46 other companies form a limited liability co-operative. The Managing Board Members are Ernst Theodor Horn and Fritz Drescher.
- 1951 The rocking horse replaces the Nuremberg city tower as the emblem for the fair and is subsequently retained by the Spielwarenmesse in varying forms.
- 1956 Fritz Drescher becomes the sole Managing Director of Spielwarenmesse eG.
- 1957 The number of attendees at the Spielwarenmesse breaks the 10,000 barrier with 11,500 visitors, 4,000 of them from abroad.
- 1958 The Nuremberg Spielwarenmesse opens up to exhibitors worldwide and the name is changed from the German Toy Fair to the International Spielwarenmesse Nürnberg. With the invitation of international exhibitors, foreign companies become a force for growth, with 60 of the 830 exhibitors at the 1958 fair coming from abroad. The following year, this figure is to be doubled and it has been rising steadily ever since. One-third of the 12,000 visitors are guests from abroad.
- 1973 The International Toy Fair moves into the newly constructed exhibition centre in Nuremberg-Langwasser, which was built in record time. With an overall exhibition space of 52,000 m², this provides enough area to offer a consistent product group structure for the first time.
- 1974 On 1 April 1974, Dr Benno Korbmacher – Chief Executive Officer of the German Toy Industry Association – takes over as Managing Director of Spielwarenmesse eG. He negotiates with Messehallen GmbH, a forerunner of today's NürnbergMesse GmbH, for further expansion of the exhibition centre. Simultaneously, he succeeds in further raising the global standing of the fair.
- 1977 Visitor numbers reach over 30,000 for the first time. 1,567 toy manufacturers – including 644 international companies – exhibit at the fair.

- 1984 14 December 1984 sees the opening of the multipurpose Frankenhalle, providing the Spielwarenmesse with an extra 10,000 m<sup>2</sup> of exhibition space.
- 1991 The international character of the Spielwarenmesse continues to be strengthened, and the total number of exhibitors has now reached over 2,000. Of the 2,078 companies, 938 are from abroad. Among the 51,140 visitors, 15,737 are international guests.
- 1996 Gerd Bise becomes Chair of the Executive Board.
- 1997 With the increasing marketing activity worldwide comes a need to modify the logo and the name of the event, which subsequently becomes the 'Spielwarenmesse International Toy Fair Nürnberg'.
- 1998 Hall 12.2 introduces a fresh, new type of exhibition stand to the Spielwarenmesse in 1998: the new concept of the permanent stand. Roughly 30 international businesses, some of them world-famous brands, rent stand space for the entire year.
